A Stock Insurance Company, herein called the Company

This policy is not subject to the terms and conditions of any other insurance and contains provisions that may be different from those of any other insurance. The policy should be read carefully by the INSURED.

I. INSURING AGREEMENTS

In consideration of the payment of premium and full compliance with the terms and conditions contained in this policy, the Company agrees, subject to all limitations, definitions, conditions, exclusions and terms contained in this policy, to provide the INSURED with the coverages set forth herein under COVERAGE A, COVERAGE B, COVERAGE C, COVERAGE D and COVERAGE E as follows:

COVERAGE A – Liability Coverage

To pay on behalf of an INSURED all sums which an INSURED shall become legally obligated to pay as damages by reason of liability imposed on him or her by law for damages resulting from a CLAIM arising solely out of the ACTIVITIES OF AN INSURED IN HIS OR HER PROFESSIONAL CAPACITY and caused by any acts or omissions of the INSURED or any other person for whose acts the INSURED is legally liable, provided such acts or omissions occur during the POLICY PERIOD as stated in Item 2. of the Declarations.

With respect to such CLAIMS under this COVERAGE A and provided the CLAIM is otherwise covered by this policy, the Company shall defend the INSURED against any CLAIM or suit seeking damages which are payable under the terms of this policy, even if such suit is groundless, false or fraudulent; but the Company may make such investigation, negotiation and settlement of any CLAIM or suit as is deemed expedient. The Company shall provide Supplemental Payments in addition to the limits of liability with respect to such insurance as afforded by this policy under COVERAGE A as follows:

1. All expenses incurred by the Company; all costs taxed against the INSURED in any suit defended by the Company and interest only on that part of any judgment therein which occurs after entry of the judgment and before the Company has paid or tendered or deposited in court that part of the judgment which does not exceed the limit of the Company's liability thereon;
2. Premiums on appeal bonds required in any such suit, premiums on bonds to release attachments in any such suit for an amount not in excess of the applicable limit of liability of this policy, but the Company shall have no obligation to apply or reapply for or furnish any such bonds;
3. Expenses incurred by the INSURED for such immediate medical and surgical relief to others as shall be imperative at the time of the OCCURRENCE, for bodily injury to which this policy applies; and
4. Reasonable expenses incurred by the INSURED at the Company's request in assisting the Company in the investigation or defense of any CLAIM or suit, including polygraph examination fees, if deemed appropriate by counsel, or actual loss of earnings, not to exceed $50 per day.

COVERAGE B – Supplemental Coverage

To reimburse the INSURED for reasonable attorney's fees for services and costs of court which the INSURED is legally obligated to pay in the defense of any CRIMINAL ACTION OR PROCEEDING or for any other proceeding described in COVERAGE B and not otherwise covered by this policy arising as a result of the ACTIVITIES OF AN INSURED IN HIS OR HER PROFESSIONAL CAPACITY, provided such activities occur during the POLICY PERIOD as stated in Item 2. of the Declarations. The INSURED may select an attorney, subject to the approval of the Company. Reimbursement provided shall be limited to the Limit of Liability described for COVERAGE B in the Declarations and further limited to CLAIMS arising from:

1. Expenses incurred in any CRIMINAL ACTION OR PROCEEDING or civil action not otherwise covered under COVERAGE A against the INSURED arising out of ACTIVITIES OF AN INSURED IN HIS OR HER PROFESSIONAL CAPACITY, except those charges or pleadings arising from actual or alleged SEXUAL ACTION OR SEXUAL CONDUCT involving a minor or student, in which instance coverage shall be the limit shown in Item 3. Coverage for bond premiums shall not exceed the limit shown in Item 3. Coverage C.1. on the Declarations.

COVERAGE E — Assault Related Personal Property Damage

The Company will pay up to the limit of liability shown in Item 3. Coverage E on the Declarations for damage or destruction of the INSURED'S personal property or other people's personal property when being used by, or in the care, custody or control of an INSURED, provided the damage or destruction is caused by an ASSAULT upon the INSURED on or surrounding school property or while away from school property provided the INSURED is on an authorized school activity. This coverage is excess over any valid and collectible insurance available to the INSURED including Homeowners and Personal Property Floater policies. - A. In addition to all the above terms, limitations, provisions, conditions and exclusions, this policy is further subject to the following conditions:

 1. If a CLAIM is first made or suit is first brought against an INSURED for an act or omission which occurred during the POLICY PERIOD as stated in Item 2. of the Declarations, the INSURED shall immediately forward in writing to the POLICYHOLDER or the Company every demand, notice of summons or other process received by his or her representatives. If the required documentation is sent to the POLICYHOLDER, the POLICYHOLDER shall then immediately forward to the Company every demand, notice of summons or other process received by his or her representatives.
 2. The INSURED shall cooperate with the Company and, upon the Company's request, shall submit to examination and interrogation by a representative of the Company, under oath if required, and shall attend hearings, depositions and trials and shall assist in effecting settlement, securing and giving evidence, obtaining the attendance of witnesses in the conduct of suits, as well as in the giving of written statement or statements to the Company's representatives, and meetings with such representatives for the purpose of investigation or defense and all without charges to the Company.
 3. Upon request, the Company shall furnish the INSURED copies of CLAIM or suit pleading, motion papers and depositions. The Company will defend any suit against the INSURED seeking damages to which this insurance applies, even if any of the allegations of the suit are groundless, false or fraudulent, and it is agreed that the Company may make such investigation and settlement of any CLAIM or suit as it deems expedient, but the Company shall not be obligated to pay any CLAIM or judgment or to defend any suit after the applicable limit of the Company's liability has been exhausted by payment of judgments or settlements.
 4. The Company shall have the exclusive right to contest or settle any of the said suits or CLAIMS. The INSURED shall not interfere in any way respecting any negotiations for the settlement of any CLAIM or suit, or in the conduct of any legal proceedings. The INSURED will cooperate with the Company's authorized representatives and render to them all possible cooperation and assistance.

B. SETTLEMENT

The INSURED shall not, except at his or her own cost, voluntarily make any payment, admit any liability, settle any CLAIM, assume any obligation, or incur any expense without the written consent of the Company.

C. SUBROGATION

In the event of any payment under this policy, the Company shall be subrogated to all the INSURED'S rights of recovery against any person or organization and the INSURED shall execute and deliver instruments and papers and do whatever else is necessary to secure such rights. The INSURED shall do nothing after loss to prejudice such rights.

D. IMPAIRMENT OF RECOVERY

The Company shall not be bound to any loss of the INSURED if the INSURED shall have impaired any right of recovery for loss.

E. ACTION AGAINST COMPANY

No action shall lie against the Company unless, as a condition precedent thereto, there shall have been full compliance with all the terms of this policy, nor until the amount of the INSURED'S obligation to pay has been finally determined either by judgment against the INSURED after actual trial or by written agreement of the INSURED, the claimant and the Company. Any person or organization or the legal representative thereof who has secured such judgment or written agreement shall thereafter be entitled to recover under this policy to the extent of the insurance afforded by this policy. No person or organization shall have any right under this policy to join the Company as a party to any action against the INSURED to determine the INSURED'S liability, nor shall the Company be impleaded by the INSURED or his or her legal representative. Bankruptcy or insolvency of the INSURED or of the INSURED'S estate shall not relieve the Company of any of its obligations hereunder.

F. OTHER INSURANCE

This policy is specifically excess if the INSURED has other insurance of any kind whatsoever, whether primary or excess, or if the INSURED is entitled to defense or indemnification from any other source whatsoever, including by way of example only, such sources as state statutory entitlements or provisions. Other insurance includes, but is not limited to, insurance policies, state pools, and programs of self-insurance, purchased or established by or on behalf of any EDUCATIONAL UNIT, to insure against CLAIMS arising from activities of the EDUCATIONAL UNIT or its employees, regardless of whether or not the policy or program provides primary, excess, umbrella or contingent coverage. In addition, COVERAGE A is specifically excess over coverage provided by any EDUCATIONAL UNIT'S or school board's errors and omissions or general liability policies, purchased by the INSURED'S employer or former employers, or self-insurance program or state pools, whether collectible or not, and it is specifically excess over coverage provided by any policy of insurance which purports to be excess to a policy issued to the INSURED.

This condition is not applicable to Section VI-EXCLUSIONS, Exclusion B.

G. ASSIGNMENT

Assignment of interest under this policy shall not bind the Company until its consent is endorsed hereon. If, however, the INSURED shall die or be adjudged to be incompetent, this policy shall cover the INSURED'S legal representatives as INSURED with respect to liability previously incurred and covered by this policy.

H. DECLARATIONS

By acceptance of this policy, the INSUREDS, the POLICYHOLDER, and any successors agree that the statements in the Declarations and in the application forming a part of this policy are issued in reliance upon the truth hereof and that this policy embodies all agreements existing between such persons and the Company or its agent relating to this insurance.

I. CHANGES

Notice to any agency or knowledge possessed by any agent or by any other person shall not effect a waiver or change in any part of this policy or stop the Company from asserting any right under the terms of this policy nor shall the terms of this policy be waived or changed except by endorsement issued to form a part of this policy.

J. CANCELLATION OR NONRENEWAL

This policy may be canceled by the POLICYHOLDER by surrendering the policy to the Company or any of its authorized agents, or by mailing to the Company written notice stating when thereafter the cancellation shall be effective.

This policy may be canceled for nonpayment of premium with a written notice to the POLICYHOLDER mailed to the address shown in the Declarations, stating when, not less than sixty (60) days such cancellation will be effective. In which case, earned premium shall be computed pro rata.

If this policy shall be canceled by the POLICYHOLDER, the Company shall retain the customary short rate proportion of the premium hereon. Payment or tender of any unearned premium by the Company shall not be a condition precedent to the effectiveness of cancellation, but such payment shall be made as soon as practicable. If the period of limitation relating to the giving of notice is prohibited or made void by any law controlling the construction thereof, such period shall be deemed to be amended to be equal to the minimum period or limitation of such law.

In the event of cancellation and with the consent of the Company, not to be unreasonably withheld, the coverage for individuals for whom premium has been paid will continue until the end of the POLICY PERIOD. If the Company elects not to renew this policy at the end of a POLICY PERIOD, a written notice of nonrenewal stating the reason for such nonrenewal will be mailed or delivered to the POLICYHOLDER at least ninety (90) days before the expiration date of the policy. The notice will be mailed to the last known address of the POLICYHOLDER. If notice is mailed, proof of mailing is sufficient proof of notice.

If the policy is written on a reporting basis, the POLICYHOLDER agrees in the event of cancellation to report the units of exposure and to pay premium thereon to the Company as provided herein up to date of cancellation. Premium adjustment may be made either at the time cancellation is effected or as soon as practical after cancellation becomes effective, but payment or tender of unearned premiums is not a condition of cancellation.

K. SOLE AGENT

Notice to the POLICYHOLDER shall constitute notice to each INSURED. By acceptance of this policy, the POLICYHOLDER will act on behalf of all INSUREDS with respect to:

1. The giving and receiving of notice of CLAIMS or cancellation;
2. Accepting any endorsement issued to this policy;
3. Paying premium when due; and
4. Receiving return premium.

Each INSURED agrees the POLICYHOLDER will act on the INSURED'S behalf. The POLICYHOLDER is charged with the responsibility of notifying the Company and all INSUREDS of any changes that might affect the insurance provided by this policy.

THE SCOPE OF QUALIFIED IMMUNITY IN TEXAS

Fortunately for Texas teachers, the state of Texas has strong laws providing for qualified immunity from liability for professional public school employees. The purpose of this article is to provide an overview of those state statutes and review sources of potential liability in an effort to prevent liability. (NOTE: This article does not address any potential liability under federal law.) The Texas statute that provides for qualified immunity was amended and strengthened by the 78th Texas Legislature during the regular session and reads as follows:

Sec. 22.051. DEFINITION; OTHER IMMUNITY.

- (a) In this subchapter, “professional employee of a school district” includes:
- (1) a superintendent, principal, teacher, including a substitute teacher, supervisor, social worker, school counselor, nurse, and teacher’s aide employed by a school district;
 - (2) a teacher employed by a company that contracts with a school district to provide the teacher’s services to the district;
 - (3) a student in an education preparation program participating in a field experience or internship;
 - (4) a school bus driver certified in accordance with standards and qualifications adopted by the Department of Public Safety of the State of Texas;
 - (5) a member of the board of trustees of an independent school district; and
 - (6) any other person employed by a school district whose employment requires certification and the exercise of discretion.
- (b) The statutory immunity provided by this subchapter is in addition to and does not preempt the common law doctrine of official and governmental immunity.¹

Sec. 22.0511. IMMUNITY FROM LIABILITY.

- (a) A professional employee of a school district is not personally liable for any act that is incident to or within the scope of the duties of the employee’s position of employment and that involves the exercise of judgment or discretion on the part of the employee, except in circumstances in which a professional employee uses excessive force in the discipline of students or negligence resulting in bodily injury to students.
- (b) This section does not apply to the operation, use, or maintenance of any motor vehicle.
- (c) In addition to the immunity provided under this section and under other provisions of state law, an individual is entitled to any immunity and any other protections afforded under the Paul D. Coverdell Teacher Protection Act of 2001 (20 U.S.C. Section 6731 et seq.), as amended. Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to limit or abridge any immunity or protection afforded an individual under state law. For purposes of this subsection, “individual” includes a person who provides services to private schools, to the extent provided by federal law.²
- (d) A school district may not by policy, contract, or administrative directive:
- (1) require a district employee to waive immunity from liability for an act for which the employee is immune from liability under this section; or
 - (2) require a district employee who acts in good faith to pay for or replace property belonging to a student or other person that is or was in the possession of the employee because of an act that is incident to or within the scope of the duties of the employee’s position of employment.

Generally, the statute provides qualified immunity from liability in the following situation for the persons defined in Section 22.051. A professional school employee is immune from liability under state law if the following conditions are met:

- the act is incident to or within the scope of the duties of the employee’s position of employment;
- the act involves the exercise of judgment or discretion on the part of the employee;
- the employee is not using excess force or negligence in the discipline of a student³; and
- the act does not involve the operation, use, or maintenance of any motor vehicle.⁴

Other than the use of motor vehicles, professional school employees have exposure to potential liability in two primary areas: ministerial acts and student discipline. Ministerial acts are actions or omissions that do not involve the exercise of judgment or discretion on the part of the employee. The negligent performance of (or lack of performance of) a ministerial act by a professional school employee resulting in injury could make the teacher liable for the injury. So far, the Texas cases have construed the term “ministerial” fairly narrowly. The Texas Supreme Court defines ministerial acts as those “where the law prescribes and defines the duties to be performed with such precision and certainty as to leave nothing to the exercise of discretion or judgment.”⁵

Nevertheless, the Texas Supreme Court has declined to overrule a decision of the Fort Worth Court of Appeals holding that the alleged failure of school employees to follow certain mandatory procedures of the school constituted a ministerial act for which the qualified immunity from liability did not apply.⁶ In that case, a mentally disabled student was allegedly sexually assaulted by another student in the school elevator. The school administration implemented new procedures that included such measures as never allowing the students to be alone together, only allowing adults to have the keys to the elevator, and executing a mandatory tardy policy for the students. The parents of the student alleged that these procedures were not followed and that the student was assaulted two additional times in the school elevator. The parents filed suit against the school district superintendent, principal, vice principal and special education diagnostician. These professional school employees asserted that they were entitled to the qualified immunity from liability. The Court of Appeals held that they were not entitled to immunity from liability. According to the court, the procedures that were implemented to protect the student from additional assaults “defined the duties with such precision as to leave nothing to the exercise of Appellants’ judgment or discretion.”⁷ Since those procedures were not followed, the employees could be held liable under Texas tort law.

The other source of potential liability is in the discipline of students. A professional school employee can be liable for using excessive force in the discipline of students or by being negligent in the discipline of students. The most important thing to keep in mind is to be very careful not to use excessive force when disciplining students. You should be very familiar with your district's policies relating to student discipline, especially if your policies authorize corporal punishment. You should also strictly adhere to any policies relating to physical contact with students. While provisions of the Texas Penal Code and Education Code allow an educator to use reasonable force to maintain discipline, you should only use force on a student if necessary to protect another student or yourself from bodily injury.⁸ Teachers must keep in mind that potential liability for the negligent discipline of a student is not limited to situations involving corporal punishment or use of force against a student. The Dallas Court of Appeals envisioned the following scenario as a basis for potential liability:

In other instances, the punishment involves no force, but rather requires some action on the part of the student as a result of which the student suffers bodily injury. An example of the latter instance would be running laps around an athletic field. It is conceivable that an act or failure to act on the part of the professional employee might be a proximate cause of bodily injury suffered by a student in running the laps.⁹

While the definition of corporal punishment in state law excludes physical pain caused by reasonable physical activity associated with athletic training, competition or physical education, any physical activity should be assigned for the purpose of conditioning or training rather than as punishment.¹⁰

Professional employees should also note that another statute providing for immunity from liability for employees who dispense medication to students has been amended. This law provides:

- (a) On the adoption of policies concerning the administration of medication to students by school district employees, the school district, its board of trustees, and its employees are immune from civil liability from damages or injuries resulting from the administration of medication to a student if:
- (1) the school district has received a written request to administer the medication from the parent, legal guardian, or other person having legal control of the student; and
 - (2) when administering prescription medication, the medication is administered either:
 - (A) from a container that appears to be:
 - (i) the original container; and
 - (ii) properly labeled; or
 - (B) from a properly labeled unit dosage container filled by a registered nurse or another qualified district employee, as determined by district policy, from a container described by Paragraph (A).¹¹
- (b) The board of trustees may allow a licensed physician or registered nurse who provides volunteer services to the school district and for whom the district provides liability insurance to administer to a student:
- (1) nonprescription medication; or

- (2) medication currently prescribed for the student by the student's personal physician.

- (c) This section may not be construed as granting immunity from civil liability for injuries resulting from gross negligence.

It is unclear whether this law is supplemental to the immunity provided by Section 22.0511, or whether it creates an entirely different standard for immunity when dispensing medication. Although it is possible that Section 22.0511 also applies, school employees should only dispense prescription medication under the circumstances provided under the above statute.

While Texas law provides a strong qualified immunity to its professional school employees, it is clear that there are situations in which there is exposure. For this reason, it is fortunate that the Texas Legislature placed a $100,000 cap on damages for suits against professional school employees for "actions incident to or within the scope of duties of the employee's position of employment."¹² As this is a relatively new statute, it remains to be seen how the Texas courts will implement this cap on damages.

The fact that you may be immune from liability in certain circumstances does not keep someone from filing a lawsuit against you. If this happens, you will need the assistance of qualified counsel to represent you and assert the qualified immunity from liability on your behalf. You should be sure that you renew your membership in TCTA and the professional liability coverage within the grace period provided by the policy to make sure there is no lapse in your coverage.

One of the most important ways to prevent liability is to consult with legal counsel if you have any questions about your potential for liability and how to minimize it. TCTA members are fortunate to have toll-free access to staff attorneys to advise you on these matters. If you ever have any questions about the potential for liability, you should contact the TCTA Legal Department at 888-879-8282.
